

The laboratory of emergency medicine

The Purpose is:

Implementation of fundamental and applied research in the scientific direction: «The study of molecular-biological, organismic and population trends in the formation of chronic non-infectious diseases and their peculiarities in the population of Siberia, the development of scientific bases for prevention, diagnosis and treatment».

Head of Lab.
Prof. Nikolaev K. Yu.

The Objectives of the Laboratory are:

1. Study of clinical and prognostic aspects of therapeutic diseases emergency among the population of Siberia.
2. Study of development mechanisms of therapeutic diseases emergency in Siberia.
3. Development of innovative methods of diagnosis, treatment and prevention of therapeutic diseases emergency.
4. Implementation of scientific results of laboratory research into health practice.
5. Training of residents and postgraduate students for research and clinical work, advanced training of scientific personnel of the laboratory, participation in postgraduate educational activities.
6. Representation of scientific products in the scientific publications and at scientific meetings.